Vienna, 2025 – The Voyager Exhibition, the world's unique showcase of real naked people, is coming to Austria for the first time, bringing with it a bold and authentic message. This exhibition is not just about nudity – it's about truth, freedom, and deeply ingrained prejudices that shape our perception of the body and identity.

Since its inception in 2016, the exhibition has provided thousands of visitors with an extraordinary experience – the opportunity to see, feel, and experience art in its purest form. Each display is alive, real, and intimate. The exhibited individuals are not objects but artists revealing their natural selves. Voyager is an exhibition where visitors become part of the event, shedding societal barriers to discover their own truth.

What Makes the Voyager Exhibition Unique?

- The first exhibition of real naked people worldwide – This concept was first introduced in Bratislava in 2016 and has since transformed the way we perceive nudity in art.
- A tangible experience – Unlike traditional galleries, visitors can perceive the exhibits not only visually but also through touch. Every interaction is conducted with respect and consent.
- Nudity without prejudice – The exhibition dismantles stereotypes, presenting nudity as a natural and aesthetic phenomenon, not as a taboo or provocation.
- Limited access – Each event is restricted in both time and capacity, creating an exclusive and intimate atmosphere.

Why Is This Exhibition Important?

The Voyager Exhibition invites reflection on nudity in modern society. In an era of digital filters and unrealistic beauty standards, it offers a space where the human body is presented in its true form. The exhibition also responds to the consumer-driven perception of aesthetics – revealing nudity as a natural and liberating experience.

"The naked body is not a shame. It is the authentic truth of who we are. Voyager is not an exhibition you just look at – it is an exhibition you experience," says the founder, Mário Petreje.

After successful exhibitions in Prague and Bratislava, Austria is now the next stop for this unique project, challenging perspectives on the body, art, respect, and freedom.
